A Brief History of the Lesbian Avengers

The Lesbian Avengers was founded in New York City in January 1992 as a concrete step in our political activism, the Lesbian and Gay Pride Parade. Their banner read, "Lesbians and Gay Men in Action." The Lesbian Avengers' mission was to fight for the freedom and rights of all women, including lesbians. They sought to create a space where women could come together to discuss and act on issues of common concern.

The Lesbian Avengers were founded in 1992 as a direct action group focused on issues of social justice and visibility. They were known for their creative and powerful protests, including spray painting anti-hate slogans on walls and buildings, and using public spaces to bring attention to the discrimination faced by the lesbian community.

The Lesbian Avengers were involved in a wide range of actions, from the demonstration against gay bashing at the World of Wonder ballroom to the protest against the New York Times building, where they occupied the lobby and spray painted the walls. They also took part in the 1993 Women's March on the United Nations, where they marched with other activist groups and made their presence known.

In 1993, the Lesbian Avengers joined forces with other activist groups to form the National Coalition of Anti-Hate Groups, which aimed to fight against hate crimes and discrimination. This coalition helped to raise awareness of the issues facing the lesbian community and to bring about change.
